We've downloaded Live Writer a few months ago but today is the first day I've actually used it on My Digital life.

A big problem I personally experience is spelling mistakes. So normal procedure was to write the posting in Microsoft Word and then copy the text over to the posting on the web site. I then experienced the problem where the text looks different from the normal text on the web site because the Word DIV tags are also inserted into the posting.

With Live Writer I do not seem to have these problems.

It contains the spell checker and all the normal Word and Blog formatting functions that I require. Yes I know that it isn't a new software program, but I am impressed now that I've finally started with it.

I guess it will also safe on bandwidth over the long run.

I now just need to figure out how to Publish to me blog and have it appear in the &quot;published&quot; status instead of &quot;unpublished&quot;. I first did a test blog and it didn't appear on the front page due to the status in the back.

Small steps I suppose
